Arrival of the D. M. Hall!

NINE DAYS LATER.

Lincoln Inaugurated.

His Position on Secession!

LATER FROM EUROPE.

GAETA HAS FALLEN!

Interesting Summary.

By the arrival of the bark D. M. Hall, Capt. Blake, this morning, we have received from Capt. B. files of San Francisco papers to the 22d instant.

The Hall made the run up in six days and sixteen hours from San Francisco.

The barks Glimpse and Crimea, from San Francisco, are outside.

McDougall has been elected U. S. Senator from California, vice Gwin.

St. Louis, March 3.
The House on the 22d adopted the report of Committee of 33 by 136 against 73, but failed to pass the amendment to the Constitution proposed by 130 to 71, not two-thirds; yesterday the vote was reconsidered, and the amendment adopted by 130 to 65. On the 27th, the Peace Congress adopted Guthrie's proposition modified.

There was great rejoicing on the 27th at the result. Gen. Scott ordered a salute of 100 guns. Hopes of peace were greatly raised yesterday; but when the proposition of the Peace Congress was presented in the Senate, Seward offered an amendment by substituting a call for a National Convention—and Tyler and other delegates, on their return to Richmond, stated, in a speech, that all efforts to obtain justice from the North were unsuccessful, and that the Conference was a failure. These things operated as a great damper.

No disposition is manifested by Congress to pass the Peace Conference proposition, which requires a two-third vote.

The report of the Committee of Thirty-three is now pending in the Senate.

Affairs at the South remain unchanged.

Twigg has been stricken from the army roll as a coward and traitor. There are reports that he had been shot. Also, that Gov. Houston was privy to the surrender.

Jeff. Davis has had an interview with Major Anderson. It is given out that there would be no fight.

South Carolina troops on leave have been ordered to return to their regiments.

The bill stopping the mails in the seceding States has passed both Houses.

St. Louis, March 5.

The Fourth was a bright and beautiful day, and the concourse immense. The inauguration commenced according to established usage. President and President elect were received in the Senate Chamber. After the administration of the oath, the President repaired to the front of the Capitol, where Senator Baker introduced him to the crowd.

The Maryland Republican Association followed after the President. Not a single unpleasant or menacing incident occurred.

The Inaugural Address was telegraphed West in full, notwithstanding immense difficulties in crossing the Platte River. In it, President Lincoln does not consider it necessary to specify particular acts proper to be enforced. He cannot recognize the right of secession, and will faithfully execute the laws in all the States, and perform his duties as far as practicable, unless the American people withhold the requisite means, or in some authoritative manner direct the contrary. There need be no bloodshed or violence. His power will be used to hold, occupy and possess public property; collect duties and imposts, but beyond what may be necessary, he will use no force; no obnoxious officers will be imposed on discontented sections. The mail service will be continued unless repelled. He rather favors a National Convention, though he makes no recommendations, and guardedly approves the amendments to the Constitution which passed Congress.

St. Louis, March 6.

Mr. Lincoln's Cabinet has been announced as follows:
Secretary of State—Wm. H. Seward, of New York.

Secretary of the Treasury—Salmon P. Chase, of Ohio.

Secretary of War—Simon Cameron, of Pennsylvania.
Secretary of the Interior—Caleb Smith of Indiana.
Postmaster General—Montgomery Blair, of Maryland.
Attorney General—Edward Bates, of Missouri.

The dispatches to the Bulletin have the following additional:
St. Louis, March 8.—The proceedings of the new Administration have been conducted harmoniously. The Cabinet appointments have been confirmed by the Senate.

A few of the Senators voted against Blair and Bates, because they were from the South.

Numerous State delegations have called on the President; among them 144 [say, one hundred and forty-four] from California. They met with a pleasant reception.

The Senate continues in Executive Session.

Mr. Douglas takes the position that the Inaugural Message means peace. In this view, he sustains it, though he will not support the Administration. He and Crittenden have telegraphed to the Virginia State Convention, urging that State not to secede.

The Southern sentiment generally, at first, looked on the Inaugural as meaning war, and consequently great excitement was produced, even among the most conservative of Union men. During the last day or two, things are more quiet, and all parties seem disposed to await the acts of the Government, to ascertain its intentions.

Mr. Seard, in a short speech to the Illinois delegation, said that the battle of freedom had been fought and won; henceforth, all influence must be given to save the Union. The way to maintain the integrity of the Republican party was to maintain the Union.

The matter of the forts at the South is left wholly in the hands of the Jeff. Davis government. No hostile demonstrations have yet been made.

Crawford, Forsyth and Roman, the Southern Envoys, are now in Washington, and are about to make known the views of their Government.

Texas has adopted an ordinance of secession by a large majority.

The Virginia and Missouri Conventions have taken no definite action yet. A speech in favor of coercion was made in each Convention yesterday.

Returns indicate that the Unionists have succeeded in North Carolina.

Arkansas has elected Union officers in its Convention.

It is understood that the action of the Border States will be withheld until a correct understanding is obtained of the policy of the new Administration. If not coercive, there is no doubt that every one of the Border States will stick to the Union; but if coercive, it will be a doubtful matter.

Crittenden is spoken of for the United States Supreme Court, but is opposed by Trumbull and others.

Judd of Illinois, is appointed Minister to Berlin.

F. W. Seward is appointed Assistant Secretary of State.

Major Anderson and Col. Sumner are spoken of to fill Twigg's place.

Twigg was enthusiastically received at New Orleans on the morning of the 5th of March.

Dispatches from Fort Sumpter say that Major Anderson is all right.

The U. S. Treasurer at New Orleans has refused to pay the drafts of Secretary Dix for work done at the custom house.

Col. Lee, the aid and confidential friend of Gen. Scott, has resigned his commission in the army and returned to Virginia.

Mr. Buchanan has arrived at Wheatland. He had a formal reception at Harrisburg.

Mr. Floyd had arrived at Washington to stand his trial.

In the charter elections in the State [Missouri] the Republicans were generally successful.

Another tenement building in New York has been burned, whereby seven persons were consumed.

The larger portion of the town of Dundee, N. Y., has been burned down.

New York, March 7.

Cleared from New York for San Francisco—the ship Contest, Steel, on the 28th of February, and the ship Asa Eldridge on the 1st of March.

St. Louis, March 9.

It is reported that President Lincoln has stated to Southern gentlemen that the Inaugural means peace.

Mr. Crittenden, in response to a serenade, urged his friends to stand by the Union; the people alone can settle the question.

Adjutant Gen. Cooper and the Assistant, Withers, have resigned.

It is reported that Cassius M. Clay will be Minister to Mexico; also, that Jeff. Davis has sent a secret agent there.

It is asserted that Gov. Houston has resigned.

The army interests oppose the promotion of Major Anderson.

Dispatches show that Twigg had received orders reducing his command before his surrender of the U. S. property.

In the U. S. Senate yesterday, Mr. Foster offered a resolution to expel Wigfall, of Texas, because he had declared himself a foreigner, and owned no allegiance to this Government. Wigfall not being present, the resolution was laid over. After some other important business, the Senate Committee were announced.

EUROPEAN INTELLIGENCE.

By an arrival with European dates to the 20th February, the capture of Gaeta is confirmed. There were 11,000 prisoners taken, besides 700 cannon, muskets, etc. The King of Naples was at home, but would shortly leave.

Cialdini had left Gaeta with troops for Messina, which fortress still refused to surrender.

The Liverpool corn market was weak and irregular.

The Bank of England proposes to increase the rates of discount.

Additional per D. M. Hall.

HOW MR. LINCOLN WOULD HAVE BEEN TREATED IN BALTIMORE.

It is difficult for me to say—says a correspondent of one of the Eastern journals—what the crowd might have done, had Mr. Lincoln appeared before it. The general impression is that there would have been serious trouble. Certain it is that the very worst characters in Baltimore were there congregated, to restrain whom, under existing circumstances, would have been impossible. It is known that many dissolute men and boys were fully supplied with rotten eggs and other missiles, which they found no use for in Mr. Lincoln's absence. A policeman informs me, he thinks they were intended to bespatter and maltreat the Baltimore Wide Awakes, who are held to be obnoxious, as soon as they appeared in the presence of the Presidential cortege, without designing insult or injury to the President. If such a disturbance had commenced, it is impossible to say where or when it would have ended. Mr. Lincoln would certainly have been in great danger, and it is unanimously believed that he acted wisely in going to Washington as he did, though no one credits the reports about a deliberate plot to assassinate him. I am told, however, that large quantities of eggs were bought in markets some days previous, and billes purchased from stores by well known rowdies. There was evidently a design of perpetrating some mischief or outrage. Some say it was a plot of the Breckinridge Democrats, with influential wireworkers behind the scene, backed by reckless disunionists and secessionists; that the scheme was secretly concerted several days ago. Others allege it was only a demonstration intended to show Lincoln the difference between the sentiments of the people in the slave States and that exhibited in the North; to let him see that thousands were forced into idleness in consequence of sectional politics and national troubles. The universal desire of all good, respectable citizens, was to see Mr. Lincoln courteously treated and safely protected. If any hellish design existed to assassinate him, it was wholly unknown to them, and no calamity would have caused deeper regret or more shamefully disgraced our city.

ASSAULT ON A CONGRESSMAN.

About half-past eleven o'clock, Feb. 21, as the Hon. Charles H. Van Wyck, of Orange county, N. Y., was returning alone from the rooms of the Hon. Preston King, on Capitol Hill, Washington, he was assaulted by three assassins, whose evident purpose was to take his life. Mr. Van Wyck was approached from behind suddenly by one of the villains, who, when just alongside, made a desperate lunge at his breast with a knife, which was, undoubtedly, a large, curved, sharp-pointed bowie-knife. The knife penetrated Mr. Van Wyck's overcoat—a thick one—his under coat, and also passed through a copy of the Congressional Globe, and nearly through a pocket memorandum book of unusual thickness. It was a most deadly blow, and but for the copy of the Globe and the memorandum book would have been instantly fatal. Mr. Van Wyck instantly turned on his assailant and struck him, knocking him down. At the same moment a second assailant came up and struck at Mr. Van Wyck with a knife, a blow from which he received in his left hand while warding it off, and at the same moment Mr. Van Wyck knocked down his second assassin with his right hand. Immediately thereafter Mr. Van Wyck had succeeded in getting his pistol out and fired at his first assailant who fell, but Mr. Van Wyck was himself at this moment knocked down by a violent blow from the third assassin, which stunned him for time.

The rascals then made off with their probably wounded companion. After the assassin had retreated, Mr. Van Wyck recovered his consciousness, and managed to return to his rooms at the National. His physician, Dr. Lee, of New Jersey, member of Congress, says Mr. Van Wyck is in no real danger. No trace of the identity of the would-be murderers has yet been found. It is to be hoped that Mr. Van Wyck's shot took effect. He made a remarkably good fight.

PRESIDENT BUCHANAN BLAMED.

The Select Committee of Five on the President's course of receiving Commissioners from South Carolina, reported to-day. The majority report is signed by Dawes, Howard and Reynolds. The committee regard the mission itself, as well as the manner in which it was treated by the President, as among the most remarkable events of the extraordinary times in which we live. The committee cannot perceive on what principle the President assumed to entertain or hold communication with the representatives of South Carolina, for it seems obvious enough that under the principle announced in his annual message, the commissioners could be regarded in no other light than as engaged in a revolutionary effort to subvert the government, and it would have been the plain duty of the Executive to enforce the laws against any individuals known or suspected of complicity in any movement of a treasonable character. They fail to see any circumstances justifying the President entertaining diplomatic intercourse with South Carolina, except on the assumption that she was an independent power, and that the President, by according the Commissioners from her an official reply, involved to some extent a recognition of the assumed position of the rebellious State. The committee conclude by saying they are not able to resist the inference that in the beginning of the movements against the Government, there were relations of an extremely friendly character between those contemplating rebellion and those whose duty it was to suppress it.

THE PEACE CONGRESS.

The Peace Congress adjourned Wednesday, February 27th, having agreed on the proposed amendments to the constitution, as follows:

The first prohibits slavery in present territory north of 36 30, and declares present statutes in regard to slavery unchanged while Territories. Nor shall Congress or Territorial Legislatures prevent the taking of slaves into the Territories south, nor impair relation between master and slave. Territories to be admitted as States with or without slavery. The second declares that no new territory shall be acquired, except by treaty, nor for naval stations and commercial purposes, unless ratified by four-fifths of the Senate. The third declares Congress shall not interfere with slavery in States nor in the District of Columbia without the consent of Maryland, nor interfere with slavery in United States ports, etc., nor interfere with inter States slave trade. The fourth declares no State shall be prevented from enforcing by legislation the delivery of fugitives from labor. The fifth forever prohibits the foreign slave trade. The sixth declares neither sections, except second and fourth, shall be amended or abolished without the consent of all States. The seventh declares Congress shall provide for the payment to the owner of the value of the slave rescued from the Marshall.

FLOYDIANA.

The story is current about Washington, that that model of chivalrous honor—that noble exemplar of the integrity of the Virginia aristocracy, the late Floyd—made two remittances of specie from this city to his Virginia home, amounting, respectively, to 50,000 and 70,000 dollars each. They were conveyed by Adams & Co.'s Express, under the charge of a special conductor. Recent developments have shown that he does business on a grand scale, which make even these large amounts appear trifling. It must be confessed that $120,000 saved in four years on a salary of $8,000 is a remarkable instance of economy and thrift.

Another evidence of Floyd's treason has come to light; five companies of Government troops are stationed at Fort Randall on the Upper Missouri; and it now appears that the ex-Secretary sold all means of transportation except enough to move one company, his purpose being to prevent force from being called into action to interfere with his designs.

THE TRAITOR TWIGGS.

Twigg gave orders to every officer in command of a post in the military department of Texas, seventeen in number, including San Antonio, the head quarters, to surrender to the revolutionary State Convention, without a single man being in arms to enforce the State's demands. Every particle of the military property there, amounting in the aggregate to millions of dollars, including arms, accoutrements, provisions, horses, cattle, wagons, &c. The whole number of enlisted troops under Twigg's command in Texas was 2000, and they were scattered about, for the most part, over a frontier of over fifteen hundred miles. There are nearly all the officers belonging to four regiments, all the Third Infantry, all the Eighth Infantry, all the Second Cavalry, five companies of First Artillery, five of First Infantry, making forty companies in all—embracing 200 commissioned officers and 2900 enlisted men, being more than are in any other one department in the service.

SECRET MISSION OF FOREIGN CAPITALISTS.

Mr. Nichols, an English banker, and Mons. De Jeaneux, a Paris banker, arrived at Washington lately, on a secret mission to examine the financial condition of the country, and the probable stability of the Government, and other matters pertinent thereto. They tarried there a short time, and proceeded South to investigate the pecuniary condition and resources of that section, and to take care of European interests generally. After this they will proceed to Mexico and make similar investigations in that country, having in view the ultimate establishment of a joint English and French protectorate there. Mr. Nichols has the authority of British bankers to assume the pecuniary responsibility of building a Pacific Railroad, to pass through the territory of the Southern States of America and the Northern States of Mexico.

ANOTHER BRITISH SUBJECT INSULTED.

Another outrage at the South against a British subject is reported, which, it is probable, will lead to serious consequences. Information has reached the State Department that the British Consul at Mobile has been subjected to indignities. The report created considerable excitement in Washington, especially among the diplomatic corps, and Lord Lyons called at the State Department to gain information upon the subject. Particulars of the affair have not yet reached us.

EFFECT OF SECESSION.

A postmaster in Georgia writes to the Department at Washington, under date of Feb. 8th: "I belong to that party in Georgia who know but little (if any) difference between Southern secession and Northern fanaticism. I look upon the precipitancy of the seceding States as wild in the extreme. Already distress and ruin press upon us; a dark veil hangs between us and the future, and nothing but the interposition of Him who holds the destinies of nations in His hands can save us from ruin." The Washington Intelligencer states that similar letters are received from other postmasters in Georgia and other seceding States.

In Philadelphia, recently, the police of the First District had their attention directed to a shocking scene in a house in Morgan's Court, in the Second Ward. A woman was lying dead in bed, and her drunken husband was lying beside her. An officer who went into the house roused up the husband, and told him that his wife was dead. The brute replied that she was only dead drunk, and he struck the corpse in the face with his fist. He was arrested and taken to the station house.

A dispatch from Richmond, Virginia, Feb. 28th, says Messrs. Tyler and Ledden were serenaded to-night. Both spoke. Mr. Tyler denounced the result of the conference as a worthless affair, and said the South has nothing to hope for from the Republicans. Mr. Ledden said it was a delusive scheme, a shame, an insult, and an offence to the South. Lieut. Montague made a secession speech. The secession feeling is increasing.

A fugitive slave was rescued from two deputy marshals March 2d, at New York, as they attempted to put him aboard a steamer. The officers had no warrants.

Late and it is believed reliable intelligence from Charleston, states that the four or five hulks which were sunk in the main ship channel of Charleston harbor have been broken up by the action of easterly storms, and wholly swept away, leaving, of course, the stones used to sink them upon the bottom. by anxiety of mind, occasioned by the distracted state of the country.

The whaling bark "Massachusetts," arrived at Rio Janeiro, Dec. 14th, in charge of the first mate, who stated that the captain left the bark with three boats with their crews—eighteen persons—on the 5th of December, in chase of a large sperm whale. Night coming on, and a heavy gale at the time, he lost sight of the boats, and laid the bark to anchor. He then cruised for some days in search of them, and not falling in with them he concluded they were all lost. He then put into Rio, but the same evening of the day the "Massachusetts" arrived, news was received from Santos that the captain with his boats and crew all arrived safe at that port on the 10th inst., after being five days in the boats without provisions.

CALIFORNIA.

The election of McDougal, as U. S. Senator to succeed Gwin, will be contested, on the ground that the Speaker did not announce the vote on the last ballot correctly. Another job for the Supreme Court.

St. Patrick's Day was quiet and respectfully observed throughout the State.

Another fire took place between Broadway, Vallejo, Stockton and Powell streets. Three dwellings were burned.

European Intelligence.

The Dresden Journal gives currency to a story of the concession by Italy to England of a Sicilian port, Syracuse. The arrangements, it says, have been made at Turin by Sir James Hudson.

It appears from a note published by the official journal of Vienna that the amnesty for Hungary only extends to persons condemned for acts subsequent to the 1st January, 1849.

Cosmo de Medicis' topaz ring, worth $50,000, has been stolen from the Medici gallery at Florence, and the same thief took Diana de Poitiers' drinking-cup. He is a villain of taste.

Mr. Thomas Sayers is to be seen driving about London in a pony carriage decorated with a lion's skin. In keeping with these, his nether extremities are encased in huge top-boots around which is emblazoned, in golden characters, the proud legend, "Tom Sayers, Champion of England."

A dearth of provisions of the vegetable kind is beginning to be felt in England and Ireland. Potatoes in the latter country are rising in price and taken up largely for exportation to England at sixteen cents per fourteen pounds, nearly double what they should be. Indian corn and oatmeal will soon be the principal reliance for the poor. In England the seed wheat is said to be turning out badly.

A late number of the Liverpool Times declares that cotton manufacture is becoming the greatest power in England, perhaps the world. The men engaged in it are making money almost by a single leap. In wealth they far exceed the old feudal aristocracy, and every estate now-a-days which finds its way into the market is snatched up by some cotton spinner, the length of whose purse goes a great way to atone for the poverty of his pedigree.

Snowballing in the Tuileries was carried on to such an extent on Christmas day, that it became necessary to send for troops to protect the public. A parcel of young scamps systematically assailed every well-dressed person, particularly ladies who wore bonnets worth spoiling. One young man, supposed to be an Englishman, used his cane in self-defense, and a regular row was the consequence. Many bearskin caps, belonging to grenadier guards, who came to restore order, were seen rolling about in the snow. The troops were unarmed and could do little, but ultimately a body of sergeants-de-ville cleared the gardens and arrested several of the snowballers.

The expense of setting up a telegraph line in England is from $300 to $350 per mile.

By a transposition of two letters, Punch makes the United States, the United States.

God, according to Schopenhauer, the German metaphysician, is a "great will rushing into life."

England has now, for a wonder, but one war on her hands, and that is with the New Zealanders.

Druidical remains, similar to those in Ireland, and the hoar-stones of England and Scotland, have been discovered in India.

The Orleanist party in France is asked by some of the Catholic Prelates to join its fortunes with the Church, and thus overthrow the present dynasty.

The mortality in London, for the week ending 19th January was 1,926, or 500 more than the usual average, a fact attributed entirely to the cold weather.

The French are entering upon a grand experiment of cultivating cotton in Algeria. They propose to find their slaves in China, and call them Coolies.

Inundations in Spain have recently taken place, as disastrous in their character as those in Holland. The Ebro, Douro and several other rivers have overflowed their banks, and whole villages have been swept away.

Accurate photographs of a large number of old manuscripts of the seventh and ninth centuries, in the convents of Mount Albos, being copies of the Old and New Testaments, have been recently taken by General Sebastianoff, and will shortly be made known to the literary and religious world.

The new King of Prussia has issued an "Act of Grace," by which the return of various exiles is now possible. Among other names, are those of Lieut. Willig of Cincinnati, Schurz of the Connecticut Legislature, (Carl Schurz of Wisconsin,) and Dr. Hoffbauer of Iowa.

Garibaldi's habitation of Caprera, having been recently photographed, the Italians are so much shocked at its miserable aspect that a subscription has been set on foot for the purpose of raising funds to build him a house; but it is probable that the General will refuse this gift, as he has refused so many others.

At the moment of the division of spoil, at Peking, between the two armies, the French General insisted, in the name of the Emperor that Lord Elgin should make the first choice for the Queen of England. Lord Elgin selected a baton of command of the Emperor of China, in green jade, of great value, and mounted with gold. A second baton, similar in every respect, having been found, Lord Elgin, in his turn, resolved that it should be reserved for the Emperor of the French.

The beau-monde of St. Petersburg is just now much scandalized at the determination of three elderly Russian princesses, belonging to the most illustrious families, to marry three young medical attendants. A fourth lady, of mature age, not a princess, but of high rank and immensely rich, is about to marry a young man employed in the shop of a money-changer of the capital. One of the three elderly princesses, not being yet a widow, applied for a divorce to enable her to marry again, but her application has been refused by the Russian tribunals.

A decidedly rich expose has recently taken place, which will not increase the high reputation of that once fashionable "artist" the late Count D'Orsay, who enjoyed a great name as a painter and sculptor. It seems that he employed two au d'atelier, a painter and modeller, both highly skillful in their professions. They worked in different rooms, and retired upon the announcement of visitors. Most of the Count's busts and pictures which have given him distinction were the work of these men.

The News from the States.

The news from the States represent matters as being in the greatest uncertainty. The Peace Congress, of which Ex-President Buchanan had such great hopes, had concluded their labors; but without effecting a compromise and settlement of existing difficulties. The great struggle in the Peace Congress was over "territory hereafter acquired." The southern wing wanted the North to guarantee the existence of slavery in acquired territory. The Republican members refused. So no decision was arrived at upon that question; but the following amendment to the Crittenden resolutions was offered by Guthrie of Kentucky, and adopted:

In all the territory of the United States, not embraced within the limits of the Cherokee treaty grant, north of a line from East to West on the parallel 36 degrees 30 minutes North latitude, involuntary servitude, except in punishment of crime, is prohibited, whilst it shall be under a territorial Government; and in all the territory South of said line, the status of persons owing service or labor as it now exists, shall not be changed by law while such territory shall be under a Territorial Government; and such government shall not have power to hinder or prevent the taking to said territory of persons held to labor or involuntary servitude within the United States, according to the laws or usages of any State from which such persons may be taken; nor to impair the rights arising out of said relations, which shall be subject to Judicial cognizance in the Federal Courts, according to the common law; and when any territory North or South of said line, within such boundary as Congress may prescribe, shall contain a population required for a member of Congress, according to the then Federal ratio of representation, if its form of government be Republican, be admitted into the Union, on an equal footing with the original States, with or without involuntary servitude or labor, as the Constitution of such new State may provide.

There was great rejoicing at Washington when the Peace Congress announced the result of its labors. But when the Senate and House of Representatives refused to concur, matters relapsed into their previous gloomy condition. Mr. Seward instead of supporting them in the Senate, moved for a National Convention; and ex-President Tyler returned to Richmond, and declared that the South must not expect justice at the hands of the North. There is a general disposition to make compromise; but whilst all cry "peace! peace! no peace cometh." Advice from Arkansas, Missouri, Kentucky, North Carolina, Virginia, Maryland, and Delaware all show a strong Union sentiment in the ascendancy. So far as can be judged, they will support the Union, except Lincoln's administration resorts to coercion.

If that were resorted to, it is presumed they would make common cause with the Cotton States.

The most important item in our advices is the inauguration of President Lincoln. His inaugural address we publish in a supplement to this issue. It is a short document, written in a very matter-of-fact style, and free from ambiguity. It is published by some of our California exchanges as the address in its entirety; and referred to by others as a synopsis. It deals almost entirely with the secession issue. The President plants himself on the Chicago platform; declares that he has no purpose to interfere with Slavery where it exists; but is determined to preserve the Union according to the provisions of the Constitution. The important point of the address is where he declares his intention to hold the forts and collect the duties on imports. If he attempts to regain the forts and arsenals seized, and reinforce the garrisons in the Southern forts, a collision can scarcely be avoided in the present excited state of feeling in the South. In respect to collecting duties, that also appears next to impossible, for the Cotton Confederacy have already adopted the tariff of '57, and claim exclusive control over the revenue collected. Nothing short of force is likely to enable the Federal Government either to recover the forts or collect duties except the South be pacified. But Mr. Lincoln has left himself a loophole through which to escape the enforcement of the letter of the laws by stating that he would "forego for a time" in case circumstances warranted it. This is simply letting the secessionists have their own way. Such a policy may be soothing, may be wisest, may avoid bloodshed; but it is a new one; and either indicates great weakness in the Federal Government or that the new cabinet regard secession as a political epidemic that will soon die. If from weakness, the result to force is feared at present. If from a belief that better counsels will prevail in the South, then Mr. Lincoln's peace policy is evidently to keep the Border States from joining the Southern Confederacy, and wait for a reaction among the secessionists favorable to the Union. Should that occur, then he may feel himself at liberty to drop temporising, adopt a more vigorous policy, make the laws respected, and the power of the Federal Government respected even in South Carolina herself. But it is difficult to foresee any speedy reaction without a satisfactory compromise with the South. Mr. Seward, however, predicts a great change within ninety days. Within that time the new Administration will have time to develop its peace policy, and it is probable the question will be settled either for or against secession.

NOTARY PUBLIC.
MR. DRAKE, 63 GOVERNMENT STREET has received the appointment of Notary Public for these Colonies. m20 1m

THE BRITISH COLONIST
Monday Morning, April 1, 1861.

PARAFFINE CANDLES.—We have received from Messrs. Gladwin, Tarbell & Co., wholesale grocers, Wharf street, a sample of Meucci's newly-invented paraffine candles. They are made from coal, have a beautiful pearl-like appearance, give a clear, brilliant light, emit no smoke or smell, burn at least 10 per cent. longer than any other candle we have ever before tried, and being produced from a mineral substance are without the greasy touch possessed by all sperm or adamantine candles. They are decidedly a great invention, and destined to create a complete revolution in the business of candle-making. Messrs. G., T. & Co. are the sole agents for these colonies.

A JOINT-STOCK COAL COMPANY.—The steamer Emily Harris, on Saturday, landed, at a place called the Rapids, a company of twelve coal miners from Nanaimo. The company intend prospecting a vein of coal recently discovered in that vicinity, and if it is found that it will pay, will sink a shaft and procure the necessary apparatus for its successful working. Six of the miners will remain to sink the shaft, and the other six will return to the company's works at Nanaimo and contribute from their earnings sufficient to support their partners till the seam is laid bare.

A WHOOPER.—On the 14th of last month the tri-weekly Squeeze announced that but two columns of its hebdomadal issue would be devoted to advertisements. On Saturday last, only two weeks after making that announcement, we find nearly four columns of advertisements in its weekly edition—its subscriber being thus virtually cheated out of two columns of valuable (?) reading matter. Verily, our cotemporary must be sorely pressed with want so soon to violate its promise to the public.

PHOTOGRAPHIC VIEWS.—A boat is being fitted out at James Bay, which will be used in taking photographic views of the scenery of Puget Sound, Vancouver Island, and the Northwest Coast of British Columbia. These views will be forwarded to the States, transferred to canvas by a clever artist, and exhibited in the form of a panorama in the United States, Canada, and Europe. The photographers are two enterprising Canadians.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—Yesterday morning, a German named Endt, resident at Esquimalt, while coming to Victoria in a buggy, was thrown from the seat, and severely, if not fatally injured in the abdomen, by falling on a stick that lay in the road. We learn that he was conveyed to the Royal Naval Hospital, where he remained during last night and received proper attention.

APRIL FOOL'S DAY.—To-day being the first of April, numberless practical jokes will be played upon the unsuspecting. The custom of hoaxing persons on this day, originated with the ancient Jews. For an account of the manner in which the jokes were played in olden times and the reasons therefor, we refer our readers to the Book of Nehemiah, chap. xiv, v. 1.

THE MURDER OF COWICHANS.—An investigation has been going on at Port Townsend for the purpose of fixing the crime of selling whisky to Clallam Indians, on the night of the murder of five Cowichans, on two white men—Chris. Streamer and Robt. Louis. The Register does not give the result.

TO ADVERTISERS.—We must beg the indulgence of our numerous advertisers whose favors are laid over to-day. The late and interesting summary of news, given elsewhere in our paper, has crowded out a large number of advertisements until our next issue.

ARRIVALS.—The barks D. M. Hall, Glimpse, and Crimea, arrived on Saturday from San Francisco, after short passages. The Crimea lost her top-gallant mast during a gale off Cape Mendocino, but sustained no other damage.

THE PACIFIC.—The steamer Pacific was advertised to leave San Francisco for this port on the 25th March. If she left on the day advertised, she will be fully due here to-day or Wednesday.

ARRIVED.—The schooner Nanaimo Packet arrived yesterday morning from Olympia with 200 barrels of Tumwater flour, consigned to Edgar & Aime.

Nearly one hundred gallons of tangle-leg were seized by the police from Indians last week.

THE EMILY HARRIS.—This steamer arrived from Nanaimo on Saturday with 55 tons of coal.

H. M. S. Hecate arrived at Nanaimo on Friday from New Westminster.

THANKS.—To Capt. Geo. A. Reynolds, of the bark Glimpse, for late California papers.
